MOST COMMENDABLE ACTION

ONE of the most commendable acts of the executive committee of Tonopah's Fourth of July committee was to pare from a number of other appropriations in order to augment the fund at the disposal of the committee having in care the refreshment and entertainment of the children and their mothers. The Fourth this year will have more of its old time spirit than has been evidenced in later years elsewhere. It will possess sporting attractions of inviting nature. It will appeal to the frivolous and the gay, but there is a substantial undercurrent of patriotism running through it all, which has developed to more obvious characteristics as the work of preparing the program progressed. The patriotic exercises will not be a mere matter of form, but will be one of the central features of the celebration, if not its main event, while the parade will breathe forth, like a living organism, the spirit of patriotism.

But the efforts that the committee is putting forth to cheer and rest and refresh the mothers and their children are something out of the ordinary, including as they do, free rides in decorated autos, free refreshments, free shows in the picture houses and a place where tired ones may rest and be refreshed. Truly, Tonopah is celebrating in the proper manner and the observation of this greatest of national holidays should have a worthy historian.

WHAT WILL END THE WAR?

THE demand by the Socialist party that Germany enter into negotiations for peace "in the name of humanity" is one of the boldest utterances yet made in less majestic land. It makes no allegations directly, but infers much. It terms this an inhuman war and by inference the government, the kaiser himself, is inhuman.

The peace party in Germany has tremendous strength and influence. It is a more implacable foe to militarism than are the allies to the Teutons. Germany might withstand siege for another year, might have communication with the rest of the world cut off utterly, might see its legions go down to death on the fighting line and still not hoist the white flag. But when the peace party demands that negotiations to end the war begin, the termination of the struggle is near at hand.

WAR FAVORABLE TO FREE-TRADERS

THE war in Europe has vetoed the low tariff law. It has erected a tariff wall against the United States. It has put many mills on full time. The result is a reasonable proof of the value of protection as a stimulator of prosperity. Business was stagnant while the Underwood tariff operated under normal conditions. The moment these conditions were changed and the war became a substitute for protection the return to prosperity began. The movement has been hastened by orders for war material, of course, but this has not been the decisive factor.

Mr. Wilson may see, therefore, a prosperity brought about in spite of policies, not on account of them. Nevertheless he is certain to profit from the conditions. Voters do not ask why and wherefore. They are satisfied when they are prosperous and dissatisfied when they are not prosperous. The war has introduced into the political situation a new factor favorable to the Democrats.

It is imperative, therefore, that the Republican party enter the campaign next summer united. It has a hard fight ahead of it in any event. It cannot afford to make mistakes and it cannot afford to be reactionary. It must be aggressive, as it was in Lincoln's day. It must wage a campaign of education. Otherwise the electorate may be deluded into believing that prosperity occasioned by temporary conditions is permanent. Our great industries must not be dependent on the policies of other nations, but on the economic program adhered to by the United States.

THE FORTUNES OF WAR AND SILVER

PERHAPS it may not have occurred to you; it did not to the writer until his attention was called thereto, that the varying successes of the powers embroiled in war have been an infallible barometer for the registration of the price of silver. When the allies succeed in holding the enemy or invade his territory, when the Teutons seem to be losing their clutch on Galicia or France, then silver strengthens materially, while if the kaiser's arms are victorious, there is an accompanying slump in the white metal.

The files of the Bonanza for the past year establish this to be a fact. The cause for the fortunes of the allies and of silver to be correlated is simple of determination. Upon the ending of the war, and the majority of people believe there can be but one conclusion, there will be a tremendous demand for the white metal in the arts to some extent, but more particularly for coinage. There are some optimists who confidently expect that the upward rush will carry silver to the old time parity with gold on a sixteen to one ratio, while there are few who concede a price for it of less than 60 cents. The world will find itself penniless after the war, at least devoid of metallic currency, provided all accounts are settled in coin, which metal money will have gravitated to the United States. It will then be necessary to coin enormous quantities in order to have a medium of exchange that will be acceptable until something resembling normal conditions of trade and finance are restored. It will therefore be of interest, to both those who are interested in the price of silver and in the termination of the

SPONGES

The tendency of sponges is toward scarcity and higher prices. This is due to the fact that sponge fishing is a precarious business and the product limited.

OUR PUBLIC FORUM

I--Introductory

Through the Press Service of Agriculture and Commerce, the master minds of this nation will be invited to the public forum and asked to deliver a message to civilization. Men who achieve seldom talk, and men who talk seldom achieve. There is no such thing as a noisy thinker, and brevity is always a close companion to truth.

It will be a great privilege to stand by the side of men who can roll in place the cornerstone of industry; to associate with men who can look at the world and see to the bottom of it; to commune with men who can hear the roar of civilization a few centuries away.

Too often we listen to the rabble element of our day that cries out against every man who achieves. "Crucify him." Mankind never has and probably never will produce a generation that appreciates the genius of its day. There never will be a crown without a cross, progress without sacrifice or an achievement without a challenge.

This is an age of service, and that man is greatest who serves the largest number. The present generation has done more to improve the condition of mankind than any civilization since human motives began their upward flight. The Greeks gave human life inspiration, but while her orators were speaking with the tongues of angels, her farmers were plowing with forked sticks; while her philosophers were emancipating human thought from bondage, her traffic moved on two-wheeled carts driven, and oftentimes drawn, by slaves; while her artists were painting divine dreams on canvas, the streets of proud Athens were lighted by fire-brands dipped in tallow.

The genius of past ages sought to arouse the intellect and stir the soul but the master minds of today are seeking to serve. Civilization has assigned to America the greatest task of the greatest age, and the greatest men that ever trod the greatest planet are solving it. Their achievements have astounded the whole world and we challenge every age and nation to name men or products that can approach in creative genius or masterful skill in organization, the marvelous achievements of the tremendous men of the present day. Edison can press a button and turn a light on multiplied millions of homes; Vail can take down the receiver and talk with fifty millions of people; McCormick's reaper can harvest the world's crop, and Fulton's steam engine moves the commerce of land and sea.

The greatest thing a human being can do is to serve his fellow men; Christ did it; Kings decree it, and wise men teach it. It is the glory of this practical age that Edison could find no higher calling than to become the janitor to civilization; Vail the messenger to mankind; McCormick the hired hand to agriculture, and Fulton the teamster to industry, and blessed is the age that has such masters for its servants.

STATE LIBRARY HAS 29,000 LAW BOOKS

The state library at Carson is probably one of the most complete in the entire west. During the past year the library has grown in such volume that lawyers from all over the coast recognize it as the place worth visiting when in search of records that cannot be found in California and other sister states. At the present time there are something over 29,000 law books, all in English, reports, statutes and special treatises. The fiction department contains some 6000 volumes and this, like the law library, is being constantly added to by the best of publications.—Appeal.

Economy, simplicity and efficiency makes the Ford a universal utility. A utility because it serves everybody—doctor, farmer, salesman and banker. In every business, or as a pleasure car, the Ford proves reliable and economical. Low first cost—$60 less than last year, and the plan of sharing profits with the buyers—and low upkeep expense, are reasons why it pays to own a Ford. They serve and save. Buyers will share in profits if we sell at retail 300,000 new Ford cars between August 1914 and August 1915.
 Touring car $490; Runabout $440; Town Car $690; Coupelet $780; Sedan $975, f. o. b. Detroit with all equipment.
